JIM JEFFRIES AGAIN WINNER

"Gentleman Jim" Goes Down and Out in the Tenth Round of Fighting.

THROWS UP SPONGE

Ryan Signifies the Stopping of the Contest in Usual Prize Ring Style.

(Special By Scripps-McRae.)

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 15.—"Jim" Corbett was beaten by James J. Jeffries in the first half of the tenth round of their fight here. Corbett stood not the slightest chance from the first. With all his cleverness he was almost outpointed by Jeffries during the early part of the encounter, and the blows he succeeded in landing were apparently without sting.

The end came shortly after the beginning of the tenth round, when Jeffries planted one of his terrific left swings on Corbett's stomach. The man who conquered John L. Sullivan dropped to the floor in agony, and the memorable scene at Carson City, when Bob Fitzsimmons landed his solar plexus blow, was almost duplicated.

This time, however, Corbett struggled to his feet and again faced his gigantic adversary. With hardly a moment's hesitation Jeffries swung his right and again landed on Corbett's stomach. Jim dropped to the floor, and then it was that Tommy Ryan, seeing that it was all over, motioned to Referee Graney to stop the punishment.

Jeffries Has Improved.

The fight demonstrated beyond all doubt that Jeffries stands alone in his class. He showed remarkable improvement in both speed and skill. He was never in better condition. He looked lighter than usual, and the way he moved about on his feet and the frequency with which he countered Corbett's leads astonished everybody.

Corbett, in comparison with the big man opposed to him, looked very light, but was really heavier than ever before. He appeared to have lost some of his old-time speed and skill during the early part of the fight, but this may have been due to Jeffries' marvelous improvement. Corbett's physical condition appeared to be all that he had claimed for it. He stood many of Jeffries' terrific blows without wincing, and came back swinging lefts and rights and landing frequently, but his blows hardly stung Jeffries.

Corbett Is Cautious.

Jeffries was not only stronger, faster, and cleverer than ever before, but he used his head to better purpose, and, although Corbett would hit him hard enough to hurt an ordinary man, Jeffries would bore right in without noticing the blows, and would deliver telling hits that materially helped in deciding the result of the fight.

At first Corbett was very cautious, and apparently was outpointed by Jeffries, but later in the fight he warmed up and showed some of his old-time cleverness. From the first, however, it was generally regarded as a hopeless case for Corbett. He made a gallant fight, but he never stood a show to win.

After the fight was over Corbett quickly recovered, walked over to Jeffries and shook him warmly by the hand.

"Jim, you beat me fairly," he said. "You stand alone. No one can touch you."

Referee Eddie Graney said after the fight that it was a great heavy-weight contest.

Every Blow Counts.

"Jeffries was very clever, but Jeffries was almost equally so, and showed marvelous improvement. He practically outboxed Corbett during the fight, with the exception of the eighth and ninth rounds. Every blow that he landed told, and his superior weight and strength were bound to win in the end."

Time-Keeper George Harting stated that the blows that won the fight were a left to the stomach followed by a right to the same place, as soon as Jeffries arose to his feet after taking the count of nine.

"It was the best fight Jeffries ever made, and astonished even those who had placed implicit faith in his ability to win," said Harting.

During the fight Corbett talked continuously to Jeffries, and to the referee made a number of facetious remarks. He was game to the end, and whenever Jeffries landed a blow would make a jesting remark. In the sixth round, during a clinch, just after Jeffries had punished him severely, he remarked to the referee:

"Watch him, Eddie; he's trying to knock me out."

FORAKER ACT UPHELD IN FEDERAL COURT

Judge Ray Sustains Constitutionality of Law Imposing Duties on Porto Rican Goods.

New York, Aug. 15.—Judge Ray in the United States circuit court has handed down an opinion sustaining the constitutionality of the Foraker act, which provided a new revenue tax on merchandise brought into the United States from Porto Rico after the island ceased to be a foreign country.

The decision sustained a demurrer interposed by the United States in an action commenced against it by the sugar-importing firm of Lascelles & Co. of New York. The firm imported a cargo of sugar from Porto Rico on June 12, 1899, which was placed on its arrival in a bonded warehouse. The entry was liquidated Nov. 14, 1899, under the existing Dingley tariff act. On June 6, 1900, the entry was reliquidated and duties reassessed under the Foraker act. The firm protested against the imposition of any and all duties.

Finally, under protest $2,500 duty was paid and suit for its recovery instituted. The government demurred, claiming that the goods were dutiable under the so-called Foraker act and Judge Ray sustained the demurrer. The real question at issue and one not previously raised was that portion of the Foraker act which provided for the assessment of merchandise at bonded warehouses at the time the new law went into effect.

WILD WEST SHOW UP AGAINST IT

Troubles Multiply for Luella Forepaugh-Fish Combination in Michigan.

The Luella Forepaugh-Fish Wild West show is still a long distance from being out of trouble. The combination is now tied up at Ishpeming, Mich. Ever since the company left Janesville it has been playing in hard luck, and its creditors have been crowding John Barton, the lessor, for several days. The climax was reached night before last when the performers and canvasmen refused to work until their salaries were settled.

The management promised money after the performance but it was not forthcoming and a general break-up followed. The South Shore Railway company is in for nearly $100 and has refused to pull the show to Marquette, which is the next stand.

J. F. Walker, president of the Erie Lithographic company, which owns the show, and Attorney H. E. Fish will be there tomorrow from Erie, Pa., to straighten out matters. Meanwhile R. T. Marsh, a young attorney from Erie, has his hands full trying to keep the cowboys and others in line.

Three have died and many others are badly burned. The mine boss and his five companions escaped, but their condition is serious.

DOLLAR WHEAT GIVES COURAGE TO THE BULLS

One Carload Sells at Minneapolis at That Price and Causes Excitement in the Markets.

(Special By Scripps-McRae.)

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Dollar wheat at Minneapolis Friday excited the wheat market everywhere. Although the high price was paid for only 1 car, and a car of now No. 2 northern sold at Minneapolis at $1, it was enough to give the timid bulls fresh courage and make a large, excitable and higher market. Minneapolis, as usual of late, led the advance, with a 3¢ jump in cash wheat and 1 1/4@1 1/2¢ in futures. Prices here advanced 1 1/4@1 1/2¢, and all the wheat markets closed strong, with gains at Chicago of 1/2@1 1/4¢. The Northwestern markets finished at almost the top prices, futures being up 1 1/4@1 1/2¢. St. Louis lagged a little and gained only 1/4¢, and Kansas city was up 1/4¢. September was the leader of the advance everywhere, shorts covering. In Chicago it sold at 81 1/2@83 1/2¢, broke 1¢ on heavy selling for profits by most of the largest local holders, but rallied to 83¢ at the close on reports of rains in the Northwest. It advanced from 82¢ discount to 84¢ premium over December, and finished at 84¢ discount. May touched 85 1/2¢, and closed at 84 1/2¢, gaining 1/2¢ for the day.

PECULIAR MISHAP BARELY AVERTED

Trucks Break from the Tender on a Rockford Milk Train.

Passengers to Rockford on the North-Western milk train yesterday participated in a smash-up that fortunately had no fatal results although such an accident seldom takes place without loss of life.

The train had left Belvidere and had almost reached Camp Epworth when the front trucks of the tender broke loose and the front of the tender dropped almost to the track. The train was running at a high rate of speed and immediately the engineer slackened the engine, expecting that at any moment the train would begin to turn somersaults over the tender if it caught on the ties.

Fortunately he had his train almost stopped when this happened and the result was that the cars had little headway when they left the rails. The engine and cars were piled in a heap but fortunately no one was hurt beyond a few bruises.

The train was blocked all morning and the trains were sent around by way of Harvard and Belvidere, the territory between Elgin and Belvidere being without train service.

A number of Rockford and Belvidere people were on the train going to Camp Epworth. They walked the rest of the way and later visitors were compelled to secure rigs to carry them to their destination.

FALL WEATHER FOR SUMMER TIME

Unusual Continued Low Temperature Prevails This Year.

The low temperature in this city this summer is a matter of wonderment and the unseasonable cold is the cause of some discomfort.

However, the thermometer is ranging about the same as it did last summer at this time. At that time the range was usually from about 77 to about 60 to 65 degrees. The warmer days ranged about ten degrees higher and the warm days this summer have been about the same.

The terrible heat of two years ago was so great that it would take two cool summers to restore the average in this locality.

At present the evenings are too cool to allow comfort in porch and hammock parties and wraps are grateful for those who are out after dusk. Bed coverings have been thickened and sleeping is a pleasure in the cool nights.

Hay feverites have hopes that the annual visitation may be mitigated by the slow maturing of the weeds which furnish the pollen.

Fleas and mosquitoes are less numerous than usual as the cold makes them inactive.

TO SELL POOLS AT BELOIT RACES

The Privileges for the Inter-State Fair Races Sold to C. L. Jones.

Pools will be sold at the big Interstate fair to be held at Beloit next week, beginning Tuesday. The Beloit driving park, where the Beloit fair will be held, is just over the line in Illinois, and the managers of the enterprise have sold the pool privilege to C. L. Jones, a bookmaker of French Lick Springs, Ind.

This will be the only Wisconsin fair to have pool selling, and it will go a great way toward popularizing the speed events here, as many of the old horsemen care little for the sport unless they can wager a little on their favorites.

Last winter in the legislature, when Beloit endeavored to get a share of the state appropriation for fairs, it was argued that pools were sold on the grounds here against the provisions of the Wisconsin statutes, and that it was an argument which clinched the vote against the local enterprise. This year the managers will allow the pool selling, as they can partially reimburse themselves for the loss of the appropriation.

Entries for the speed events for the fair closed last night, and there is an actual register of seventy-six horses entered. These are about equally distributed among twelve races, and assures the success of the meeting.

Yardmaster Kelly is taking a lay of today and Glen Burdick is taking his place.

WITH LINK AND PIN. Gossip For Rail-road Men From All Over the United States.

Announcement of the opening of its new Cairo and Paducah line was made by the Illinois Central yesterday. This branch is forty-one miles long, and shortens the Illinois Central route between Chicago and Cairo materially. Passenger train service over the new route will be inaugurated next Saturday. Direct connection is made to and from Paducah with Chicago and St. Louis trains and to and from Cairo with Hopkinsville and Louisville trains.

Having secured an independent outlet to the Atlantic seaboard by acquiring a large interest in the Seaboard Air Line, the Rock Island-Frisco interests are said to be seeking an independent outlet to the Pacific coast. This they expect to accomplish by purchasing a half interest in the Santa Fe lines west of Albuquerque.

The Santa Fe people doubt the correctness of this report and say that control of that system can not be purchased in the open market, nor is there any interest with holdings large enough to transfer the control of the road. While this may be true, yet it does not preclude the possibility of an interchange of securities between the two systems whereby the Rock Island might secure equal right over the Santa Fe lines west of Albuquerque.

A. C. Bird, traffic director and vice president of all the Gould systems, in response to any inquiry as to the truth of the numerous statements to the effect that Mr. Gould would purchase one or more steamship lines to ply between terminal points of his roads said that Mr. Gould did not deem it expedient to enter into any steamship enterprise, necessitating the purchase of steamships at this time.

Chicago Great Western earnings for the first week of August show an increase of $16,000.

The Pennsylvania railroad has just ordered 1,000 freight cars, for delivery before the end of the present year. Vice President Keay says there is no truth in the report that the company has canceled some of its orders for equipment.

A notice has been posted for engineers to the effect that there is a hand derrick on the east track at the north end of the east passing track at Waukegan.

GAME LAWS FOR BUSY HUNTERS

EPIROMIZED FOR THEIR USE—ESSENTIAL CHANGES.

MANY LICENSES ARE ISSUED

Explains Several Points That the New Law Makes Provision For.

Wisconsin will be invaded by an army of hunters from outside the state this fall, according to present indications. Requests for license application blanks have already been received by State Game Warden Overbeck from between 600 and 700 people outside the state. This is additional to local hunters, who figure at something like 60,000. About 20,000 blank local licenses have already been sent out to county clerks, and the distribution will be continual as fast as they are received from the printer up to 70,000.

Thirteen non-resident small game licenses have already been issued, although the season does not open until Sept. 1, and in addition three licenses which include the killing of deer. The first of the deer hunting licenses went to Newland T. DePauw of New Albany, Ind., and No. 2 was secured by his daughter, Miss Katherine De Pauw. Dr. Gustav Futterer of Chicago received the third deer license. Several Chicago people have already secured licenses permitting them to shoot small game, the list to date being:

Licenses. Resident licenses cost $1, issued by county clerks. Non-resident, deer and small game, $25; small game only, $10; issued by Game Warden, Madison, Wis. WATERTOWN CLUB MEETS ON SUNDAY

Many Old Residents of the Wisconsin City Will Return for a Day.

It is expected between 60 and 70 people will go from this city on the excursion to Watertown Sunday morning, to attend and take part in the "Watertown Club" meeting and celebration to be held on that day. Former residents from many towns in this and neighboring states will be present during the festivities. Old Watertown people all over the country are imbuing the spirit of reunion and many have signified their intention of being present.

Among the residents of this city who will attend the gathering are who once lived in Watertown are E. Boots, A. Krueger, Henry A. Kronitz, Otto E. Kronitz, Albert W. Geske, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey, Jacob Mosher, and many others. A special from Minneapolis is expected to take between three and four hundred people.

Chicago will send another big crowd, probably in the neighborhood of five hundred and a thousand will go from Milwaukee. Judge Pendleton and A. J. Earling, president of the St. Paul road, are former residents who will meet their old friends at this gathering. It has been arranged for a carnival company to be in the town that day and there will be many other attractions. The special will leave here at 7 a. m. and will return in the evening of the same day.

To Invite Carl Schurz

Carl Schurz will be invited to come to speak at the picnic. Mr. Schurz came to the United States from Prussia in 1852 and soon after settled in Watertown. Later he lived in Milwaukee. He was a general in the civil war, secretary of the interior under Hayes, editor of the New York Evening Post, senator from Missouri, and held many other high official positions. He wrote one of the best biographies of Henry Clay.

Ernest Kehr, president of the Watertown, in Milwaukee, said that he would attempt to have Mr. Schurz address the former residents of the city. Many other prominent men in various parts of the country will be invited.

Triumphal Arches

The committee who were in Watertown, where it made arrangements for the booths and stands on the picnic grounds. City headquarters for the picnickers will be in Turner hall. Watertown will be elaborately decorated for the occasion. One plan is to erect triumphal arches in the streets. A speech of welcome will be made by the mayor of Watertown, and President Ernest Kehr of the Watertown club will respond.

Clanster's band will accompany the Milwaukee people, who will be met and formed into a line of march by the Watertown band and citizens.

A Favorite Train

There is no train leaving Chicago for the east, to New York, Boston, and New England points, more popular than the Michigan Central old No. 10 leaving Chicago 10:30 a. m. every day. Willie Anderson Is One of the World's Greatest Stick Wielders ♦ Jimmy Britt and Gans ♦ Speedy Claude, an Equine Tourist.

Willie Anderson has proved himself to be one of the most accomplished golfers in the world. Twice winner of the open championship of America, he has performed a feat equaled by no other golfer, and his recent victory in the open tourney on the Baltusrol links, near Morristown, N. J., showed him to possess more than the ordinary mortal's share of coolness and determination. Anderson had a hard nut to crack in the final. He tied with David Brown, the well known professional of the Wollaston (Mass.) Golf club, and in the play off, by defeating the latter by two strokes in an eighteen hole match, demonstrated that he is a worthy competitor for Harry Vardon, J. H. Taylor and any other of the British professionals of international prominence.

Willie Anderson was the professional employed by the Pittsfield (Mass.) Golf club two years ago, when he first captured the open tourney. At present he is with the Apawamis club at Rye, N. Y. He is a Scotchman, like most of the professionals in this country, and is regarded as one of the younger generation of "money chasers."

Brown, the runner up, was the winner of the open championship of Great together earned over $20,000 for his owner, M. J. Daly, brother of the redoubtable "Father Bill" Daly. Hartford, Conn., is the home place of the brothers. Claude is a Tennessee product, being son of Lissak and Lida H. and first saw the light of day at Belle Meade, the most noted nursery of thoroughbreds in Tennessee.

Claude was not good looking colt as a yearling, and as a two-year-old he was inclined to be "cheap" in appearance. Sam C. Wagner of Dayton, O., a pool room proprietor and owner of race horses, got hold of Claude as a two-year-old and took him to New York. After a selling race "Father Bill" Daly captured him and turned the colt over to his brother, Mike J. Daly. He raced only fairly well and was shipped to California in the fall.

As soon as the old year was rung out Claude began to "do things." For about six months there has been no let up. His record is something wonderful.

LAW DECISIONS FOR LAYMEN

Recent Court Rulings That Will Interest the Busy Reader Very Much.

Automobiles

An ordinance requiring one using an automobile in the streets of a city to place numbers on the same for the purposes of identification is a valid exercise of the general police power given by the charter in connection with the express power given to regulate the use of the streets. Slade vs. City of Chicago, 35 Legal News, 423.

This opinion is based upon sound principle and will undoubtedly be sustained when the case reaches the higher courts. The object of the ordinance in placing numbers upon automobiles is to prevent a reckless person, when an accident happens, immediately running his automobile at the top of its speed and getting away, leaving no means of identification.

Street Railways

When the time limit of a transfer issued by a street railway company is justified in refusing to honor it and demanding a fare. After the conductor has given the passenger a reasonable time and opportunity to pay his fare, and the passenger has refused, and the conductor has commenced the process of ejecting the passenger, the ejection may be completed, even though a fare has been tendered, as the passenger has forfeited his right as such. 55 Atlantic Rep. (Maryland), Judge McSherry, 371.

Cities

An ordinance making it unlawful to erect or maintain any works for the manufacture of gas, or any tank or other receptacle for the storage of gas, within certain limits, is a legitimate exercise of the power of a city. The motives which induce a legislative body to make such a law cannot be considered in a judicial proceeding involving the validity of the law. 72 Pacific Rep. (California), Judge McFarland, 970.

Physicians and Surgeons

The supreme court of Washington holds that two defendants, who conspired to obtain a member of the state medical examining board a set of questions to be propounded at the ensuing medical and surgery examination for consideration in money, one of the defendants to prepare the answers to the questions and deliver questions and answers to the other defendant, thereby enabling the latter to pass the examination and obtain a license to practice, were guilty of confederating and conspiracy having a tendency to injure the public. The court affirmed a judgment finding them guilty and imposing a fine of $500 and costs suit. 72 Pacific Rep. (Washington, Judge Dunbar), 1026.

Life Insurance

In Sutliff vs. Iowa, etc. Association (Iowa, 1903), an action on a life insurance policy, the defendant contended that the insured committed suicide. It was conceded that death was caused by the discharge of a revolver held by him, the bullet entering the left side. In support of the plaintiff's theory of accidental shooting, the deputy coroner gave the interesting statistical information that in about 500 cases of suicide investigated within three years, one-half had died from gun-shot wounds, all of which, save one, had been inflicted in the head, and that one in the heart. (Law Notes for August.)

Letter to Messrs. Baumann Bros., Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sirs: You sell a good many things by the gallon. Being decent men, you give full measure.

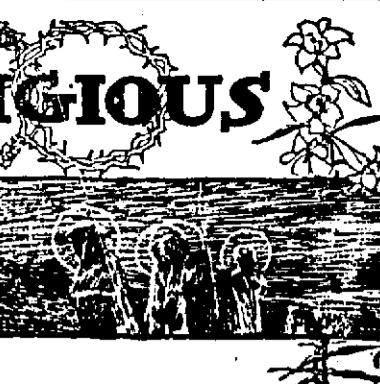

You know what we mean; you know that short weight and short measure are common among—well, we hope there are no short measures and weights in your town.

There are, though, ribbons and laces and trimmings, sold by the dozen, measure nine or ten yards. There is no complaint, because "they all do it." You have the same plague in your goods—nearly everything, canned or bottled, cheats in the quantity. Almost nobody gives full weight in a factory package!

It is easy enough for one to say that a remedy will give satisfaction, but Peoples' Drug Co. offer to refund the money if Hyomei does not do all that is claimed for it, certainly inspires faith in the treatment.

Hyomei really gives you in your own home, a change of climate, and hay fever sufferers know from past experience that this has been the only thing that afforded them relief.

By breathing Hyomei a few times daily, you can save the expense and trouble of a mountain trip and avoid all danger of hay fever.

HAY FEVER'S CONQUEROR

Breathe Hyomei and Escape This Dreaded Summer Visitor.

By the use of Hyomei, you can save an expensive trip to the mountains and escape weeks of suffering.

This remarkable remedy, for the cure of hay fever, kills the germs of the disease, sores and heals the irritated mucous membrane if used two or three weeks before the time of the usual appearance of hay fever will prevent the attack.

The complete Hyomei treatment consists of a neat pocket inhaler, through which Hyomei is breathed, a bottle of Hyomei and a medicine dropper. The air taken into the lungs in this way is filled with healing balsams and forms a perfect safeguard against attacks of hay fever or rose cold.

Those who have had hay fever, know how little help can be gained by stomach dosing in this disease. Hyomei is the only scientific yet common sense treatment for the trouble.

It is easy enough for one to say that a remedy will give satisfaction, but Peoples' Drug Co. offer to refund the money if Hyomei does not do all that is claimed for it, certainly inspires faith in the treatment.

Hyomei really gives you in your own home, a change of climate, and hay fever sufferers know from past experience that this has been the only thing that afforded them relief.

THE IMPORTANT AGE.

A boy, 17 years of age, was taken before a Massachusetts judge, a few days ago, on a complaint filed by his father, that he was incorrigible. The judge, instead of committing him to the reform school, sent him home with instructions that he be returned for commitment in two weeks, if he failed to reform.

It is safe to say that he will be back on time for his sentence. The judge, while possessing a kind heart, showed that he possessed a limited knowledge of boys and less of family government. The boy or girl who fails to respond cheerfully to restraint at the age of 17, has passed the period where discipline in the home can be enforced to any great advantage.

Many parents wake up to the fact, when their children are on the verge of young man and womanhood, that they are disobedient, and they attempt to crowd into the few remaining years before the family relations and scorned all the discipline that had been neglected in childhood, and which can only be administered with profit at the important age.

The girls who walk the streets, of a summer evening, and who frequent the parks, and the boys who think it smart to take an occasional drink, are the children who come from homes where the early training has been deficient.

It may not be a lack of discipline but it may be an overuse.

There has been no hard and fast rule discovered for the training of children, neither does it follow that a Christian home is always perfect in this respect. It is a delicate task requiring rare tact and patience, combined with good judgment and the never to be forgotten fact, that childhood is the same today that it was thirty or forty years ago.

It is an easy thing to expect too much of a child.

The man who waits a colt until he comes to maturity, expects his boy to be a full fledged man in judgment before he is half developed, and the woman who sees perfection in other people's children, frequently thinks her own daughter the worst girl in town and finds pleasure in reminding her of the fact.

It is always difficult to determine where childhood ends, and the dawn of maturity begins, but it is safe to say that it comes to the average child in normal conditions, long before the age of 17.

There are more incorrigible parents than children, and when the conditions of home life are studied, it is a wonder that more young people do not go wrong.

It is possible to surround the life of the child with so much of luxury that he goes into life with abnormal vision, and the corners that should have been rounded up in the home are left to be knocked off by contact in a world that has but little sympathy or respect for this kind of comers.

While the home of today is not the home of 30 years ago, because it has advanced with the progress of the age, the same principles govern nevertheless, and the advantages surrounding it should contribute to its welfare.

The old New England training was wholesome and the sturdy stock that came to the west as the advance guard of civilization inherited many qualities that entered into the life of the next generation, but many of these qualities have deteriorated and some of them have disappeared entirely.

The tendency of the age is towards personal liberty and the American boy imbibes freely of this spirit. If he becomes a law unto himself and assumes responsibility of thought and action long before he arrives at the age of manhood.

If the early training has been deficient he is not likely to develop the best there is in manhood.

The character of the man and women of the rising generation will be determined by the children of today. The responsibility of moulding this character is with the home, and it is a grave responsibility.

The child comes into life helpless. The development of both mind and body is slow, and but little is expected in the way of physical or mental strength during the years of childhood.

The student of child life discovers that it is a close observer long before other faculties are developed, and so the boy takes on the character of the father and girl becomes a little old woman in trying to imitate the mother. Before either are old enough to talk intelligently.

As time advances the mantle of the home so envelopes the children that it is not difficult to determine what the home is by coming in contact with its offspring. Any teacher will tell you what kind of a father Johnny has, or what sort of a mother Mary has, before either are out of the kindergarten.

If the father possesses peculiarities, the boy cultivates them because the father is his ideal. If the mother is domestic in taste and a good home keeper, the girl partakes of the same character. If the home is not a paradise, the children soon discover it, and the street and other associations contribute to early education.

The parent is expected to furnish judgment for the child, and yet the stock of judgment is so limited, in some cases, that the need of a guardian is painfully apparent. People are entrusted with the care of children who would not be competent to care for a dumb animal intelligently.

That boy who has just come out of the saloon, has a father who provides a home that is supplied with every luxury, but he never acquired the art of self-control, and the boy is simply following his footsteps.

A twelve year old bare-footed lad, sat in the shade, the other day, smoking a stog. After a few whiffs he threw it away and pulling an old cob pipe out of his pocket, said, "that kind of tobacco would make a dog sick," give me the old pipe every time."

His father who was near by looked over with admiring glance and said, "that's right, Johnny, stick to the pipe."

Johnny was the oldest of seven children, but four of his brothers and sisters were in the state home for dependent children. There are a great many children scattered over the state, and they do not all belong to the poor, who would be better off if the state or any other institution had them in training until they are old enough to think for themselves.

The wise man wrote a long time ago, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." The word of advice is as wholesome today as when it was first recorded.

The foundation of character is laid in the cradle. The tiny hand that pats the mother's face, has back of it a little brain that will develop more rapidly than any other organ. The case of this hand and brain is in the mother's keeping. If with the love that knows no discouragement she is blessed with the judgment so necessary to guide the little life, results will not be disappointing. Men and women are but children grown up.

INJUNCTION IS ARGUED TODAY

BERLIN STRIKERS' RIGHTS UP IN CIRCUIT COURT.

BEFORE JUDGE DUNWIDDIE

Attorneys for Defense Move That the Injunction Be Dissolved—Plaintiffs Object.

Whether striking Beloit machineists have been enjoined from their rightful privileges is the battle ground on which attorneys for the two factions in the Berlin controversy are arguing today. Arguments are being heard before Judge Dunwiddie in the circuit court chambers. Attorneys for the Berlin works declare that the injunction restrains the strikers from doing only those things which are illegal, and which they ought not to desire to do, and Judge Dunwiddie says that it was intention to grant such an injunction.

Attorneys for the defendants in the action assert, however, that a literal reading of the injunction shows that the strikers are prohibited from attempting by argument or calm persuasion to keep workmen from the employ of the Berlin Machine works, and from publishing articles regarding the Berlin Machine works which are damaging to that concern, however truthful the articles may be.

Wish Injunction Vacated

Holding that the strikers are justly entitled to use and peaceful methods in persuading workmen to refuse to work for the Yates company, the attorneys for the defense this morning moved that the injunction be dissolved.

In making this motion, C. E. Pierce who, together with J. L. Fisher, represents the strikers, stated that he asked no favors for two of the defendants, Herman Bauer and Otto Zanders, men who violated the injunction a few days ago and were fined in a Beloit court for assault and battery.

A Peaceful Strike

According to the attorneys for the defense the strike has been peaceful throughout, and the plaintiffs were unjustified in making allegations against the strikers which were not backed by affidavits or citation of specific instances of violation of the law. They stated that the strike had endured seventy days before the injunction was sought, and that at least an order to "show cause" should have been required.

Winkler, Flanders, Smith, Bottum, and Vilas of Milwaukee and Fethers, Jeffries and Mount of this city appeared for the Berlin Machine works. They declared that the injunction was sought because they intended to reopen the works and violence was anticipated, and not without grounds, as shown by affidavits which they presented. Instances were given in which threats and intimidation had been employed to keep men from working.

"A ROYAL SLAVE" AT MYERS GRAND

Performance Exhibited an Attractive Dancer, Fresh Scenery, and Neat Costumes.

Lulu McConnell can dance. When she side-stepped out betwixt the painted mountain pass and the foot lights at the Myers Grand last evening the audience recognized the action, and decided the stunt would be a good one not to miss, and they seemed not wrong. Unless perhaps, they applauded until the echoes rang only for the sake of applauding, and not because they wanted Miss McConnell to throw a few more of her agile breakdown steps.

Her dance, which was done in company with an alleged newspaper correspondent with a penchant for thirty-cent rhymes and cheap patriotism, was only one of several attractive features of the performance of "A Royal Slave." The scenery was new, the costumes were gaudy and flashing, and the people were not unsifted for their parts.

EPWORTH LEAGUE GO TO WHITEWATER

A Number of Delegates Will Represent the Janesville District at That Place.

The following Janesville people will go as delegates from the First M. E. church to the Epworth league convention to be held at Whitewater, beginning August 14th and lasting until the 17th: Miss Helen McChesney, Miss Luella Latre, Mr. W. W. Warner, N. I. Brothertel. Next Sunday Dr. F. T. Richards of this city will conduct a service in the morning and the Rev. W. W. Warner will speak at eleven o'clock. It is expected that every chapter of the Janesville district will send delegates to this meeting. On account of the absence of the Reverend W. W. Warner from the city on Sunday, the Reverend J. M. Judy of New Richmond will conduct the services at Mr. Warner's church on that day.

The Reverend E. S. McChesney, Dr. W. F. Oldham and Mrs. H. D. L. Adkins conducted the meetings on Friday, and today Winifred Edsall, T. W. North, Mabel E. Gott, John Reynolds and Miss Alice Millar will give talks. For the Sunday gatherings, interesting programs have been arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Frusher of Porter say they were duped by a medicine man into signing a note when they thought they were signing a contract whereby the medicine man agreed to effect a cure of Mr. Frusher or receive no pay. If the cure was effected the doctor was to receive $100. The medicine man claimed to be a member of the medical staff of the University Medical Institute of Chicago. The note was assigned by the institute through C. W. King, president to J. A. Beckwith, who brings suit to recover the money.

The cold weather has simply held back the crop, and the damage has been reported to the growing fruit. This means that the excellent prospects of the early season are not blighted.

NO CELEBRATION FOR THIS YEAR

Interest Manifested in the Semi-Centennial Anniversary is Very Feeble.

"Unless the Old Settlers' society takes up the matter, I am inclined to think that the plans for the semi-centennial celebration of the incorporation of the city have been abandoned," said A. A. Jackson. "I hardly think they will take it up."

The meeting at the city hall last evening to plan for a celebration proved an absolute fiasco. Only the feeblest interest possible was exhibited, and the attendance was so scanty that no action was taken.

Hi Henry's minstrels will be at the Myers Grand on Monday evening.

As an especial feature of this season's tour of William Maxwell Goodhue's jolly comedy, "Hello Bill,"

Above everything else the aim in "Quincy Adams Sawyer" has been to be lifelike and true to nature in both the characters and the story. The accomplishment of this purpose has spelled the word success in capital letters. The time honored villains, farm mortgages, lost wives, cruel uncles, wronged girls, etc., have done such valiant service in rural dramas for years are conspicuously and pleasingly absent in this play.

Aside from the engagement here "Quincy Adams Sawyer" will spend over four months of its time, during the coming season, in four cities only. It will be seen for two months in New York City, one month in Philadelphia, three weeks in Boston, and two weeks in Chicago.

Exclusive of stage hands there will be 278 persons employed in Kirke Shelle's production of "Checkers," more than three times the number usually to be found in the average comic opera.

Daniel V. Arthur is the sole manager of "Nancy Brown" now. Perhaps he is in a double sense, if man's prerogative is unquestioned, for he is the husband of Marie Cahill, who is the most valuable feature of the musical comedy.

Miss Margaret Hubbard Ayer, who made her debut in vaudeville a few weeks ago and who immediately received offers from several managers producing musical comedies, has signed with De Koven & Ziegfeld. Miss Ayer will sing the role of the International Girl in "The Red Feather," the new opera in which Grace Van Studdiford is to be elaborated this fall. It is to be an elaborate production and the contract calls for a long season. Miss Ayer has had many offers to continue her vaudeville work, but she decided to go into the "legitimate" and work her way to the top. She has an excellent mezzo-soprano voice.

Irene Hobson—"Hello, Bill!" which is to make its bow to local theatre goers at the Myers Grand next Wednesday. Messrs. Goodhue & Kellogg, who are directing the fortunes of the merry play, have made a notable engagement in the person of Harry Blackmore who is now almost conceded to be America's best best light comedian. Mr. Blakemore's recent success is too well known to require mention, and it is said that as William Fuller, the hapless "Bill," who is caught in a gambler's house the night preceding his

A Night Attack On Fort Sumter

ANNIVERSARY WAR STORY

September 8, 1863

(Copyright, 1908, by G. L. Kilmer.)
AHANDFUL of Yankee tars found their way through the walls of Fort Sumter the night of Sept. 8, 1863, but not with the old flag flying over them, for they went in as prisoners of war. A force of 450 men from the war ships in the harbor stole up in rowboats and tried to storm the walls. The southerners were ready with a warm welcome and killed, wounded and captured about one-third of the assailants.

For more than a week the Federal ironclads in the channel and batteries on land pounded the walls of the fort and ground them to mere heaps of dust in some places; still the garrison clung to the ruin. The Confederates evacuated Battery Wagner the night of Sept. 7 and the fall of that stronghold raised the cry in the besieging army and navy, "On to Charleston!" During the 8th the ironclad Weehawken steamed up toward the fort to reenforce. She grounded under the fire of the Confederate guns and the Patapsco and Lehigh went to her aid. The Patapsco dashed up to within 150 yards of Sumter and the outlook did not see a man nor a gun on the sea face of the work.

When the report of Captain Thomas H. Stevens, commander of the Patapsco, reached Admiral Dahlgren he decided to send a boat party to storm the historic pile and selected Stevens to lead it. Stevens asked to be excused because he didn't believe he could succeed. Even if the party got inside the fort the channel obstructions which he had met with on his reconnaissance would prevent war ships from getting close enough to support the garrison and hold it against the fearful fire the enemy could pour upon it from the batteries near at hand. The admiral refused to excuse Stevens, and in the course of the interview said, "You'll find nothing but a corporal's guard there to oppose you." Stevens' colleagues finally prevailed upon him to go because the army was preparing an attack, and if the navy failed to go in the army would reap all the glory. Stevens' party was formed in two divisions, one under his own leadership and the other commanded by Lieutenant Francis J. Higginson, now a rear admiral of the navy. Higginson's boats were to move around Fort Sumter as a feint while the other division made a direct assault. A tug hauled the boats up as far as the channel would allow and then a signal was given to Higginson to move out on his errand. The signal was followed by nearly all the boats in Stevens' division and as they could not be recalled without alarming the enemy in the fort the whole column set out ahead of time, losing the benefit of Higginson's effort.

As the boats neared Sumter they were hailed loudly from the walls, but made no reply. A rocket shot up into the air from the parapet and instantly the harbor was alive with shrieking projectiles from the batteries all around the fort.

The Confederate garrison was not only ready, but awaiting the attack. Dahlgren's decision to attack had been hastily made and the order for the party to assemble had been sent out from the flagship to the fleet, asking for a boat load of men from each ship, commanded by a lieutenant, to report to the rendezvous for an attack on Sumter at 10 o'clock. This signal was read by the signalman on board the Confederate ship Chicora and the information given to the garrison. The Federal signal code had been secured by the enemy by a clever trick. Some months before a Federal signalman had been captured and imprisoned in Charleston. One day another man in Federal uniform was brought into the prison. He knew something of the signal code and these two passed their time comparing notes. The second man was an aid on the staff of General Beauregard, the Confederate commander in Charleston. He had picked up a little knowledge of Federal signals by studying the signal flags taken from the wreck of the ironclad Keokuk, and his companion captive little suspected the fact that he was being duped. What the aid learned was soon shared with the Confederate signalmen in the harbor, and there were no secrets in the Federal fleet or camps which did not go astray if trusted to signals.

After reading the signal the Chicora steamed up beside Fort Sumter and anchored. The garrison took their stations and waited from 10 o'clock until 12, when they were rewarded by sounds of oars approaching. When the muffled sounds of the oars indicated that the boats were within 100 yards the rocket was fired, the Chicora opened with canister and a drummond light blazed out on the parapet, bringing the boats into full view.

A boat from the Powhatan, commanded by Lieutenant E. P. Williams, and one filled with marines under Lieutenant C. H. Bradford got the lead in the rush and made land. The Confederate guns across the channel as well as those on the Chicora showered the boats and the narrow beach around the fort with canister and shells. The boats which landed were quickly smashed with shot or by bricks thrown on them from the walls. The sailors and marines started to climb the walls where

WIRELESS LINE PUT IN AT MADISON

Will Handle News of All Kinds and Compete with the Telegraph.

Charles M. Sanborn, representative of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company, has established a wireless station in Madison. He says that the primary purpose of the company in establishing a station was to do a general commercial business. This will be the first station to be established at a point away from the seashore or great lakes. While in a way the station will be in the nature of an experiment, the company expects to secure sufficient business to make it a profitable investment.

In order to demonstrate the practicability of the new system, Manager Sanborn will take a party of Madison business and professional men to Milwaukee next Thursday and show them the plant there. He says he is confident that after they have seen the Milwaukee station work these men will not hesitate to entrust their telegraphic business to him.

The engineer who is to install the machinery for the station there is now in the east fitting out the Associated Press boat for the International yacht races. As soon as he gets through there will come west and equip the Madison station. Manager Sanborn says that he hopes to have the station running in three weeks.

It is intended to have the Madison station operate with both the Milwaukee and the Chicago stations, though most of the business will probably be with the former. In addition to the regular commercial business, the company hopes soon to do a general press report business both there and elsewhere.

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER.

If you are in doubt about it, don't do it.

The most successful nation is determination.

Never meet trouble half way. Let it do the walking.

Be what nature intended you to be and you will be a success.

It is very annoying that Fortune will not call by appointment.

If you bestow a favor, forget; if you receive one, remember it.

One of the duties of to-day is to qualify yourself for to-morrow.

Perhaps the man you think is a fool thinks you are in the same class.

Happy is he who lets himself owe no man and lets no man owe him.

GLANDERS IS ON

A GREAT INCREASE

Live Stock Board Will Prevent the Promiscuous Importation of Horses.

Railroad companies and individuals who have violated the law regarding the importation of horses in this state from western ranches are to be vigorously prosecuted. This was determined at a meeting of the Wisconsin live stock sanitary board in Madison Friday afternoon. The board had a long conference with Attorney General Sturdevant and at the conclusion requested that officer to investigate the matter thoroughly and if the evidence showed that the law was being violated to prosecute the guilty persons or corporations.

The board wants the law strictly enforced, believing that this is the only way in which glanders and other contagious diseases among Wisconsin horses can be suppressed.

Roberts' Opinion

Dr. E. D. Roberts, state veterinarian, told the board that both individuals and transportation companies were ignoring the law and that glanders was increasing in the state. The law requires that horses imported into this state shall be from all contagious diseases and that in order to ascertain whether animals intended for importation into the state are free from such diseases they must be examined by an authorized and reputable veterinarian at the last point of loading before crossing the state line.

Dr. H. L. Russell, bacteriologist in the university and a member of the live stock sanitary board, reported to the board that a case of anthrax, one of the most deadly diseases known, had just been found at Reedsville, Manitowoc county. Five cows died suddenly several days ago. The board ordered the cattle that have been kept with dead ones to be kept in strict quarantine and instructed Dr. Roberts and Dr. Russell to take all necessary steps to prevent the disease from spreading.

Marie Snell

The funeral of Miss Marie Snell was held at two-thirty today at the home of Guy Wheeler. The Rev. Evans of the Episcopal church of Beloit officiated and interment was in Oak Hill cemetery. It was a most impressive ceremony and the many relatives and friends present were deeply affected at the loss of so true a friend.

Mrs. Hawley, Mrs. Putnam, Len Matthews and Will Garbut sang the appropriate music in a beautiful and impressive manner. The pallbearers were nephews of Miss Snell, Wm. Wheeler, Dr. Wheeler of Chicago, Walter Snell of Fort Atkinson and Lovell Chapman of Fort Atkinson. The following relatives from Fort Atkinson were present at the funeral: W. W. Snell, Miss Mattie L. Snell, Miss Lettie Snell and Mr. and Mrs. Lovell Chapman.
